Frequently Asked Questions

Q. What is the current Legal status of CBD?

A. The CBD in Select Plus is 100% Legal.

In 2001 the DEA clarified the Status of Hemp in the Federal Register stating:

“...it is a noncontrolled substance that may lawfully be sold in the United States. Included in the category of lawful hemp products are textiles, such as clothing made using fiber produced from cannabis plant stalks. Also in the lawful category are personal care products that contain oil from sterilized cannabis seeds, such as soaps, lotions, and shampoos.”

In 2014 the DEA Legalized Industrial Hemp Growth in the Federal Farm Bill (section 7606).

In 2016 the Obama administration issued a Directive (New Drug Code 7350), making CBD Oil derived from Marijuana Plants illegal and listed it as a Schedule 1 Drug.

In that same Directive, the DEA clarified:

- The new drug code (7350) established in the Final Rule does not include materials or products that are excluded from the definition of marijuana set forth in the Controlled Substances Act (CSA).<sup>1</sup>
- The new drug code includes only those extracts that fall within the CSA definition of marijuana.
- If a product consisted solely of parts of the cannabis plant excluded from the CSA definition of marijuana, such product would not be included in the new drug code (7350) or in the drug code for marijuana (7360).
